Palms: Let him now take his stand in the front rank of American Heroes.

By Maj. Samuel J. Walker - Bartholomew Cyrus the only surviving Revolutionary Soldier present: "May his last days be his best".

By Bartholomew Cyrus (A Revolutionary Soldier) - May the feelings which filled the hearts of the Patriots of the Revolution be justly appreciated by the youth of the present day.

By Dr. Wm. D. Christian - Speedy peace with Mexico, continued peace with Great Britian and the world.

By Maj. Samuel J. Walker - Gen. Scott and Gen. Gaines: The distinguished services of these Generals in the late war, and the blood the one spilt at Lundy's Lane and Chippewa, the other at Erie, will protect them against the assaults of President Polk and his Secretary of War. The American people understand how to estimate these services.

By Thomas S. Bocock - Gen Scott: We thank him for what he has done for his country and only wish that during the next Presidential term he may take his "hasty plate of soup" in privacy, without the fear of enemies either in front or rear.

By Richard Perkins (invited Guest) - The County of Appomattox, I hope the hospitality exhibited by her citizens this day will form a closer alliance with her deserted parents. I was her greatest enemy in war, in peace her best friend.

By Giles B. Pertwood - Henry Clay, the wise and good: May posterity do homage to his destinguished ability, by implicit acquiescence in the great leading measures of his policy of our Government.

By Col. Benjamine P. Walker - John J. Crittenden: The unrivalled Orater, accomplished Gentleman and able Senator, he deserves the gratitude of his Country for his services on the Oregon Question.

By P. B. Pankey - Col. T. H. Flood - long the Whig tide of Buckingham; surely not diked by Appomattox. Locl Foocism.

By Capt. J. A. Hamner - General Taylor like a Washington and Jackson: May he long be remembered by the American People.

By Henry F. Bocock - The ladies of Appomattox, as patriotic as they are fair.

By A. A. LeGrand - The perpetuation of our Republican Governament and the just appreciation of the rights of the governed.

By G. W. A. Raine - E. J. Goode - Reader of the Declaration of Independence - May a distinction worthy of the intelligence and patriotism of his youth crown his entire manhood with the love and respect of his countrymen.

By H. F. Bocock - R. M. T. Hunter: A fearless advocate of the rights of the people, regardless of the consequences which may result to himself - May he fill the seat about to be vacated by our distinguished Senator, Wm. S. Archer.

By Capt. Thomas W. Johns - Gen. Andrew Jackson: The warrior and statesman sleeps with his fathers. His memory will ever be reversed alike by philanthropists and patriots, his services both in the council chamber and upon the lentel field will be handed down to the latest posterity - and shine as morning lights in his country's history.

By A. A. North - The United States and Texas - Long may this union of the two republics last and long may it continue to disperse its blessings to the countless millions who in the course of time, are determined to animate its soul.

By E. B. Land - Henry Clay - May his evening sun set as tranquil as was his meridan, bright and luminous.

By A. W. Carter - Edmund J. Goode: The handsome address which he this day delivered, gives us promise of future distinction and usefulness, and those who know his amiable deportment will admit that none can better deserve them.

By Col. Samuel D. McDearmon - Gen. Zachary Taylor and his little army: As long as our frontier is guarded by such gallant officers and soldiers, as they have proved themselves to be, one may fear no harm, though the Mexicans brag and the British Lion growl.

By W. W. Hamner - The memory of Gen. Jackson.

By Thomas S. Bocock - John C. Calhoun: His transcendent genius, firmness and patriotism have been placed in a clearer light, by his recent course upon the Oregon question - If he is not the next President of the United States, it will be more the Country's loss than his own.

By Thomas S. Bocock - General Taylor, the Hero of the Rio Grande. For his distinguished services in the present Mexican Campaign, he deserves the lasting gratitude of his countrymen, and the Presidency of the Union is a civil office and to be bestowed only on those who by a long course of services, show themselves able and faithful.

By Thomas I. M. Cheatham - C. James Good: May he soar aloft as on the wings of an eagle, in the estimation of his fellow citizens to the highest pinacle of fame and pluck therefrom some of those beautiful and never facing wreaths of honor and renown, that has ever adorned the brow of our great, good and intelligent worthies of this our own, our happy America (Nous V rons)

By Lieut. Peter H. Phelps - Wm. C. Rives, the able statesman and accomplished gentleman: When will Virginia yea, the United States, properly appreciate him?

By P. B. Pankey - Colonels Benajamin P. Walker and Samuel D. McDearmon: As Military Officers equalled by few. As Patriots surpassed by none.

By A. H. Cox - The bravery of our soldiers on the plains of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma on the eighth and ninth of May prove them the worthy sons of noble sires.

By Capt. Richard Perkins (an invited Guest) - The toast was prefaced by the remark, that it was conceived on approaching the fine barbecue and dinner; - The Whigs and Democrats - They united on the Oregon Question to the 49th degree - now let us on this now more important occasion go with 540-40's - the whole hog or none.

By R. H. Cox - The Ladies of Appomattox: Though not in the habit of being addressed publicly, their intelligence, modesty and beauty warrant the opinion that they are often addressed privately.

By R. J. Wright - America is an island, and should be one and indivisible.

By James O. Davidson - May the spirit of liberty which actuated the signers of the Declaration of Independence, be cherished in us and be perpetuated in the hearts of the young generation.

By Josiah A. LeGrand - Constitutional liberty: May its course be ever onward, till the whole world shall enjoy the blessedness.

By John W. West - The Lieut. Col. of the 174th regiment - May his distinguished military talents be duly appreciated by the companies under his command.

By John Sears - Mr. Thomas S. Bocock: May he ever continue to shine, a bright star in the affection of his countrymen.

By M. C. Porter - The citizens of Appomattox: May they ever be united - not consider stage roads, or other highways, as constituting points for divisions, either in a civil, military or political point of view.

By Capt. Wyatt Abbitt - The Fourth of July 1776: The day on which our fathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor for their country. We, this day, feel aware how honorably they redeemed their pledge.

By Col. Z. E. Cheatham - The new county of Appomattox, now fully organized. May Union and brotherly love ever exist among us.

By Col. Benjamin P. Walker - Dr. Joel W. Flood, (the President of the day): The polite and accomplished gentleman, we welcome him to the head of our board.

By Capt. Charles E. Davidson - The ladies of Appomattox: We love them because we cannot help it.

By Lieut. Robert Boaz - The officers of the 174th regiment - We have confidence to believe they will ever faithfully discharge the duties assigned them, as commanders of our regiment and may their own good sense and discretion dictate to them the rule by which they may be governed as officers.

By Thomas A. LeGrand - Our Republican President who has the talent to conceive and the firmness to execute measures promotive of his Country's interest and glory to sustain the officers, by whom his measures have been carried into effect.

By John P. St. Clair - Mr. E. J. Goode - May the patriotism and devotion to the interests of our common country, which his Oration this date manifested, continue to warm his breast till his countrymen shall place him in a situation to do honor to himself and bring glory on his country.

By Capt. Charles E. Davidson - We desire men of distinguished military talents to be placed at the head of our Armies, but men of long and faithful services in the councils of the nation, at the head of our government.

By the Company - Our fellow citizens, Nelson A. Kelley, A. A. LeGrand, William Wright and Capt. Jeremiah Sears, who superintended the preparation of this most excellent barbecue today - With them we may expect hospitality and choice living.

The Republican will please copy.

 This toast is an allusion to a remark made by one of the speakers, who said although he was in the habit of public speaking, yet he was not in the habit of addressing Ladies publicly.

Dental Facts & Fancies

Teeth are one of the most nearly indestructible parts of the human body. The 300,000-year-old Java man was discovered with a tooth still in his head!

Dental decay is one of America's most common diseases. The average American, at age 30, has only 12 healthy, unfilled teeth.

* * *

The average high school student has 10 cavities in his mouth!

* * *

Dental insurance has been one of the country's fastest growing employee benefits. Some 35 million Americans are now covered by group dental plans, according to Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, a major dental insurer. One-third of this enrollment has occurred within the past two years.

* * *

In 1974, expenditures for dentists' services in the United States came to $6.2 billion, or $29.23 for every person in the population!

We're Proud to be AMERICANS!

THE BIRTH OF OUR INDEPENDENCE

First to sign the Declaration of Independence was John Hancock of Massachusetts, President of the Congress. After him came fifty-six delegates, pledging to each other "our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor." Thomas Jefferson, the major contributor and delegate from Virginia, modestly described his intention in the writing of the historic document..."to place before mankind the common sense of the subject...an express of the American mind."

Mr. Carl Miller, manager of the White's Auto Store in Appomattox, recently attended the semi-annual merchandise showing held June 20-22 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Miller was part of a group of over two hundred dealers from a twelve state area who attended the meetings and viewed the merchandise to be offered for the 1976 fall and Christmas season. Giftware promises to be bigger and better than ever before for the chain, and several new lines were introduced.

During the show, Mr. Miller also received counseling concerning merchandising and advertising, and was offered several sales clinics on such items as C.B. radios, sewing machines, appliances and tires.

White's is a chain of over 700 company owned and dealer outlets located in 19 states ranging from the southwest to the east coast.
